Sorry to hear this Suki! We have over 20,000 items on our site and continue to add new items each week. We are always looking to expand our assortment to include everything you need in your kitchen/household.

Feel free to contact us via Facebook, email, or our support phone numbers and we can assist in searching for specific products. It may be that the item has been delisted, discontinued, or unavailable due to supply chain issues. In these cases, we can contact you when they come back in stock.

Otherwise, if you have any suggestions for new items to range on our site - we are always open to this and we can pass this on to our buying team.
